This volume introduces potters of the past two centuries from Pueblos located south of Santa Fe: Acoma, Cochiti, Isleta, Jemez Pecos, Laguna, Sandia, San Felipe, Santa Ana, Santo Domingo, Tigua/Ysleta del Sur, Zia and Zuni. The goal was to record all known potters from past to present.

This is more than a book about Pueblo potters and pottery, it is an essential guide to an entire world. Potters, scholars, and collectors will find a compassionately reasoned understanding of that sphere is carefully folded onto every page. Painstakingly compiled, the volume will for decades remain a primary resource. --Dr. Bruce Bernstein, Smithsonian Institution

We applaud the efforts of Dr. Gregory Schaaf in his American Indian Art Series and look forward to each new publication. I think the series is ideal - benefiting the artists and the public, and filling the need and desire for biographical information. The series provides the personal connection that is necessary in the mission for building an awareness of and an appreciation for American Indian arts and crafts. --Susan M. Pourian, The Indian Craft Shop, Dept. of the Interior, Washington, D. C.
